PREFACE

RALEIGH, THE CAPITAL OF NORTH CAROLINA, THE COUNTY SEAT OF WAKE COUNTY. AN EPITOME OF THE CITY'S GROWTH, PROGRESS AND INDUSTRIES.

The Educational Center of North Carolina, with a larger proportion of population in schools than any other place in the United States. Both a cotton and tobacco market. A City full of attractions for all visitors. Location, mid-way between New York and Florida. A glorious winter climate, with a remarkable extent of sunshine. A railway center, in touch with all points.

RALEIGH'S FEATURES

Raleigh, the capital of North Carolina, was founded in 1792, the site having been chosen by a Commission appointed by the Legislature. The city is one of the three in the United States laid off as cities, the two others being Savannah and Washington. The location is at the border of the great pine forest, which extends eastward to the sea, and the rolling land, largely timbered with oaks. The suburbs are peculiarly attractive, with an aboundant and never-failing supply of the best water, in streams and in springs. The altitude of the city above the sea level is 365 feet. Raleigh is unique in one respect, in that it is the only city which was formally surrender during the Civil War, this surrender having been made by Commissioners sent to meet General Sherman, commanding the Federal troops, in April, 1865.

The population is 20,000, of which the city authorities estimate 11 per cent white and 9 per cent colored. The death rate for the entire population annually is only 12 per 1,000; that for the whites being 10 per 1,000 and for the negroes 15 per 1,000. The death rate has been reduced 50 per cent as to the negroes during the past ten years and 25 per cent as to the whites.

The city is thoroughly sewered, the sewage being emptied into streams two miles distant. There is an aboundant supply of excellent water, from a bold and clear stream, the watershed of which is short, clean and very carefully policed.

The country road about Raleigh is peculiarly attractive, gently rolling, with a wide variety of vegetation, and offers particularly desirable sites for building, while as a farming region, taking the crops in general, no county surpasses Wake, of which Raleigh is the county-seat.

RALEIGH'S INDUSTRIAL LIFE

The story of Raleigh's business life in all that pertains to manufactures and general development is told for the first time in this booklet, which is an offering by the Chamber of Commerce to the people of the city in token of the fact that Raleigh has taken on new life and in full confidence that the publication will in the most practical way arouse and deepen public spirit and civic pride.

Within the covers of this book will be found, set out in the most compact fashion, a mass of information about Raleigh, of such a character as to answer almost every question. The main purpose of the work is to show the manufacturing interests, with the names of all those which make things, the value of the plants, number of employees, amount paid out, and the value of the output. There is also a showing as to the schools, for which the city is so justly famed and which have given it a reputation over so wide a territory in the country. The banks, seven in number, make a fine showing. The four railways put the place in touch with all sections. The story of the churches and Sunday-schools tells in the plainest sort of a way a fine phase of the city's life.

Apart from what may be termed the industries, etc., covered by this booklet, there must be mentioned in a general way the dry-goods, clothing, grocery, drug and other establishments, which are in every way a credit to the city and which attract so large a proportion of trade from other points.

The amount of building now in progress in the city shows that the new life is on, for on the first of November no fewer than 65 buildings were under construction, with a total value of $300,000.

THE ATTRACTIONS IN RALEIGH

At few capitals are there more public buildings of various kinds connected with the State government than there are here. Among these are the Capital, the Governor's Mansion, the State Mesuem, including the Hall of History, the State Agricultural Department, including the chemical laboratories and various sub-departments. The State Library. The Supreme Court Library. The Central Hospital for the insane. The Penitentiary. The Agricultural and Mechanical College. The State Experiment Station. The State poultry farm. The North Carolina Confederate Soldiers' Home and the State Fair Grounds. The State School for the white blind and that for the negro deaf-mutes and blind.

Anyone wishing further information about Raleigh, can secure it promptly by writing the
